THE D-OZ BLAZER

AN ARTWORK TO BE WORN AND IMPROVED OVER TIME

A D-OZ ORIGINAL BY DION NDLOVU

2025
ISSUE

A blazer I want to expand with more detailing in embroidery, patches and whatever else I can. A piece of clothing I want to incorporate into my everyday outfits. To expand on that I want to teach my mind to accept wearing what I want to even if it means wearing one outfit everyday.

Aslong as I am clean and comfortable. Then Fuck it !!!

I will make sure I make this blazer as dope as I can. I will build ontop of what is there and create layer by layer - Dion Ndlovu.

Outside of the love I am trying to express for my blazer. It's important to discuss what inspired the whole thing. As a young man battling mental fragility I've found that I might have too much of a "FUCK IT" attitude which isn't a problem until you let it affect those who actually give a fuck. Oh you though this was just about a blazer? No friend.

So what does this have to do with the blazer? Well this blazer is something I gave up on a long time ago because it was so plane and boring. It held no value at all to me. It was catching dust in my closet. But with the level of creativity that I've achieved I decided to allow something old and forgotten to turn into something I can improve and care for. A challenge I have given myself almost. To just learn to without consiquence, LOVE SOMETHING.

WHY DO I FIND IT DIFFICULT TO ENJOY FEELING HAPPY?

I have a theory about this and I am probably wrong or at-least in the ball park.. My theory is that I might be subconciously telling myself that I either do no deserve to be happy or I am trying to minimise the effects of disappointment by trying to minimise the happy experience. Only a psychologist can confirm these theories but that's how I've come to understand my brain. Maybe with time I will learn to quickly emputate the trigger. But yeah..

YOU ARE BETTER THAN THEM AREN'T YOU??

So. Dear reader. I hope you are working on yourself as an individual. And I hope you realise that you are worthy of happiness. I hope you realise that you do not need to feel guilty about sustaining and developing something with someone other than yourself. In certain cases it is okay to not "g.a.f". But let's learn where to apply this type of attitude. Together.

Thanks for having a read!!
